

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates generally to collagen proteins, and particularly to recombinant collagen-like proteins consisting of multiple homogeneous domains with high density of biologically active sites.